COMMON GROUND PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM SUMMARY

Revised 10/27/2026

Mission of the Common Ground Partnership

Since 2011, a growing group of government, community and military-based organizations has teamed up on a collective mission, supporting the success of all students in West Virginia. The West Virginia Department of Education (WVDE) facilitates quarterly meetings where partner representatives share unique programs, initiatives, activities, and resources that can make a positive impact in the lives of children and assist those who provide their education. Together, partners strive to enhance West Virginia schools' capacity to provide students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities necessary to meet the West Virginia Board of Education's (WVBE) career readiness goal that all students will pursue postsecondary education, employment, and/or enlistment (the three Es) upon graduation.

The partnership is also committed to assisting schools in meeting the unique needs of military-connected children, who experience on average between six and nine school transitions during grades K-12. Students experiencing school transitions or the deployments of family members can benefit from having school staff understand strategies and identify resources that can effectively meet the student's academic, social, emotional, and physical needs. This type of educational support allows military service members to focus on the vital tasks they must conduct to serve and protect our communities, state, and nation.

Common Ground Partnership Activities

The following pages provide a description of activities designed to support the success of West Virginia students.

Speaker Series

The West Virginia Department of Education provides an online system where school staff may request a military guest speaker visit on a wide variety of topics including, but not limited to, the following:

- Career exploration
- Promoting literacy
- Importance of staying in school and graduating
- American flag protocols
- Patriotic holidays or events

Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB) Mentors and Resources

The partnership's website offers information assisting schools in having the ASVAB administered and helping school counselors and educators understand how the results can be used to support students. Opportunities for requesting assistance with improving mathematics (arithmetic reasoning and mathematics knowledge) and English (paragraph comprehension and word knowledge) scores include online and in-person options.

Military-Based STEM Programs

Military partner organizations offer a wide variety of programs which help educators boost student engagement and explore career fields related to Science, Technology, Engineering, and Math (STEM).

West Virginia Wing of the Civil Air Patrol offers qualifying students the opportunity to participate in an auxiliary of the Air Force. Their Cadet Wings Program offers a pathway for students to pursue a Private Pilot Certificate. The Aerospace Education Member Program is designed to offer educators access to STEM kits and opportunities to experience aviation via Teacher Orientation Flights.

Career Exploration for Educators and Students

West Virginia Veterans to Teachers Program

Veterans come from a wide variety of career fields that West Virginia students will aspire to become a part of as they grow into adulthood. The advanced skillsets and top-notch leadership qualities military service members possess makes them ideal candidates for positively impacting classrooms across the state. In West Virginia veterans may qualify for an accelerated pathway to become a certified teacher and a hiring preference within county school districts. The Teach West Virginia website at www.teachwv.com offers specialized information that encourages veterans to pursue teaching careers and helps them understand requirements for initial licensure.

Exploring and Understanding the Military

Military partner organizations offer events designed to strengthen mutual appreciation between soldiers and educators while immersing them in career exploration. Awareness and knowledge of these opportunities among educators leads to students becoming more educated on career opportunities made available in the military. JROTC, NDCC, and the Future Leaders Program provide students further familiarity with jobs of the military and build leadership skills that can help them experience successes throughout their lives.

Connecting Educational Content to Military Careers

The partnership is continually seeking opportunities to bring content experts and career professionals who use related skills together in exciting new ways. Recently, the West Virginia Air National Guard cooperated with the West Virginia Department of Education to highlight mathematical habits of mind used in military careers as part of the Common Factor video series for educators and students.

Support for Veterans and Military Families

Month of the Military Child, Purple Up Day and Spirit Week

In April, the West Virginia Department of Education collaborates with the Office of Family Programs at the West Virginia National Guard to encourage and assist schools in celebrating, "Spirit Week" including "Purple Up Day" which honors the strength and resiliency of military-connected children during times of deployment.

Care Packages for Elementary Schools

As West Virginia educators learn that students are experiencing deployments or transitions due to active-duty military orders of any U.S. military branch, they may use an online system to request care packages from the Office of Family Programs at the West Virginia National Guard, which include information about useful strategies and resources to assist military-connected children and their families.
