

Research Partners

Marshall University Research Corporation

The Marshall University Research Corporation (MURC) is a not-for-profit corporation chartered under the laws of the State of West Virginia which delivers professional services to members of the university community.

Marshall University Center for Business and Economic Research

The Center for Business and Economic Research (CBER) at Marshall University was established in 1994 to enhance regional economic development endeavors. CBER began by providing services to the business community by leveraging expertise within the College of Business. In 1998, CBER merged with the Applied Research Division at Marshall University, adding additional researchers and expertise. In 2004, CBER became a subsidiary of the MURC. CBER became a part of the Appalachian Transportation Institute (ATI) in 2011 due to their complementary missions to enhance regional economic development. CBER has developed a strong reputation by providing independent analysis and quality research to aid clients with economic and policy choices for nearly two decades.